◆ Key Findings

■ Despite Tendency to Pursue Comfort Continues, Lack of Hot-Seller Products Led Women's Innerwear Market in 2015 to Result in 631.5 Billion Yen, 98.1% on Y-o-Y Basis

The women's innerwear market in 2015 marked 631.5 billion yen, 98.1% of the size of the previous year to record four consecutive years of decline, based on the retail amount. The scale down of the market stemmed from unexpectedly lengthy slump triggered by the consumption tax increase and from no sign of recovery in consumer spending. The buyers, who are mass merchandisers and lingerie specialty stores, continue facing difficulty. Lack of hot-seller products is also a large factor of the current predicament. Comfort, relaxed feelings, and loose-fit are continued being the product trends in the market.

■ Men's Innerwear Market Size in 2015 Slightly Declined to 263.5 Billion Yen, 99.4% on Y-o-Y Basis

The men's innerwear market in 2015 declined for the three consecutive years to 263.5 billion yen, 99.4% of the size of the previous year based on the retail amount. However, decreasing rate has become smaller, due to sales increase at casual wear specialty stores and e-commerce.

■ The Legwear Market in 2015 Recorded 627.0 Billion Yen, 99.8% on Y-o-Y Basis, Favorable Sales Continues for Panty Hoses but Slump in Other Items

The legwear market fell to 627.0 billion yen in 2015, 99.8% of the size in the year before in retail amount. Such items as panty hoses continued favorable sales from the previous year. Socks, especially cover-socks and short-length socks, also kept the steady sales, but not as much as to contribute largely to the sales like they did in the preceding year.
